At Wei-Hai-Wei there is a British Wireless telegraph station, and the British warships are equipped with this means of communication. It is possible that Wei-Hai-Wei has been in wireless communication with the fleet, and that the information of the fall of Port Arthur was received in this manner.

JUMPS AT CONCLUSIONS.

Movements of British Vessels Basis for Report That Russians Have Exacuated.

(By Associated Press.), LONDON, July 23, 8:40 P. M.—A dispatch to-day to Reuter's Telegram Company from Wel-Hai-Wel, dated to-day, pany from Wei-Hai-Wei, dated to-day, says:

"It is supposed here that Port Arthur has been captured, as the British fleet is returning here to-morrow."

Presumably this report is from the same source as the dispatch from Shanghai, reporting a Wei-Hai Wei rumor that Port Arthur has fallen. The only basis for the report known here is that with British, by the treaty, will evacuate Wei-Hai-Wei, and the Inference is that the British fleet is returning to Wei-Hai-Wei, and the Inference is that the British fleet is returning to Wei-Hai-Wei to remove the stores, etc., from that place.

Not much credence is attached for the moment to the Wel-Hal-Wel report, though similar rumors are flooding the

GREAT SLAUGHTER.

Over 3,000 Men Killed in Recent Battle-Kuropatkin on Battlefield.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—The Japanese minister has received the 101-lowing cablegram from the foreign office at Tokio, dated to-day:
"General Oku reports that according to the statements of Russian officers captured during the recent battle, General Kuropatkin was present on the battle-field, and that Generals Sakaloff and Kondranovitch were wounded. Also that the Russian casualities were about 2,000. The Japanese casualities were about 1,000, and General Oku reports that investigations are being made regarding the number of prisoners taken and the quantity of munitions of war, etc., captured."

Kuropatkin Preparing to Withdraw From Hai Cheng Very Shortly.

(Special London Times Cable to The Times Dispatchi Copyright, 1891.)

TOKIO, July 30.—Latter accounts of the Japanese occupation of Ta Tche Kiao suggest that the Russian plan in Ms defense was apparently to roll back the Japanese left, which rested on the road from Kai Ping to Ta Tche Kiao, with a cavalry screen to the westward, but the Japanese attack on the night of July 25th frustrated this programme, the Russian left being driven back, and Ka Ping Ling, the key to the whole situation, being seized. Pan Ling, which was occupied by the Taku Shan force on July 2d, lies east of Tomu Ching; therefore, the Taku Shan army is now only eighteen miles from Hai Cheng, which is consequently unsuited to serve as General Kuropatkin's next stand. He will probably select Ausneatien, midn'ay between Hai Cheng and Liao Yang.

TOKIO, July 20.—Accounts from the first army show that General Kuropathin has posted a screen of two divisions eastward of Liao Yang, along the road from Lia Cheng to Han Pa Ling, which road crosses the Liao Yang highway midroad crosses the Liao Yang nighway mid-way at Fanghoyen, where are the head-quarters, while the reserves are at An-ping. The troops recently driven from Hishioyen are now concentrated at Han Pa Ling. This screen of two divisions covers also the left flank at Anshantlen, where it is believed General Kuropatkin is preparing his next stand.

BEAR GROWLS BACK

Files Formal Protest Against British Shipments of Contraband to Japan.

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, July 29.—Russia has filed a formal protest at the Foreign Office against British shipments of contraband to Japan. The Associated Press learns that the Russian government, since the peripular of the war, has carefully beginning of the war, has watched the manufacture of tended for the use of the Japanese gov ernment, and as soon as it was estabcriment, and as soon as it was established that such goods were about to be shipped to a hostile destination, the facts were officially communicated to the British government with the request that measures be taken to put a stop to it. It is further asserted that in many uses the government has not taken ac-ion, and it is understood that when the war ends, Russia proposes to present a bill for damages to the British govern-ment, which will offset the indemnities laimed for the seizure of British steam ors.

It is also learned by the Associated Press that Russla does not intend to hasten the settlement of the question of the right of vessels of the volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanelles, since, if negotiations on the subject were conducted at this time, as desired by Great Britain, Russla might be forced by the existing situation to grant concessions she would afterwards regret.

The Novosti says: "M. von Plhve was a great man with a passon for order, which was shown in his handling of every problem thrown in his handling of every problem thrown in his handling of every problem thrown in his way. His ability to deal with perplexing questions touching all classes of society which fell into his hands evidenced his wonderful krength and versallity. His death is a loss to our national life."

The Official Messenger says: "His death is an irreparable loss to all truly particle Russians. He was a faithful servant of the throne and the fatherland. He was intellectual and of firm will, not sparing himself in health, strength or private interests where public dity was concerned. He did not accomplish all he set out to do, still file name must be handed down on the list of the great and true servants of his courtry."
